THE LOYAL SHOULD GOVERN.

"RESOLVED, That those who preserved the country should govern it, instead of those who attempted to destroy it."—Illinois Republican platform.

But the Democratic party want those to govern the country who attempted to destroy it. The Democratic majority in the House of Representatives is made up of those who attempted to overthrow the Government and to destroy the country as a nation. Ex Confederate Postmaster-General Reagan, and his Confederate associates, control the Democratic majority of the House as they formerly controlled their slaves, and as the solid Democratic South controlled the Democratic party before the rebellion. If the Democratic ascendancy in the House is continued, it must be simply the control of the country by the solid South—by those who attempted to destroy it.

The Prince of Wales has consented to become President of the Royal Colonial Institute, the aim of which is to cement the union of England's various dependencies with the mother country and each other. The act is considered important in London, as tending to associate the Prince with the colonies and their interests.

Six cases of sunstroke occurred in Cincinnati Friday, and between thirty and forty in St. Louis, ten of which proved fatal.

RAPID CHANGE.

The Alto hits the nail squarely on the head by saying: "It is amusing to note how public feeling has changed toward that individual whose name has been given to the greatest 'hole' in the United States, the Sutro Tunnel. For nearly twelve years the strongest hostility was shown toward him by the mining magnates. Notwithstanding the rival interests between such men as Ralston, Hayward, Jones, Flood, Fair and Mackay, they were not so bitter but that they could unite to gether and fight the tunnel project of Adolph Sutro. His work was ridiculed, every means tried to destroy his credit, and even Congress called upon to repeal all laws that conferred any benefits; but, like in the connection of his tunnel with the Savage mine, he was successful in defeating and thwarting every attempt made to paralyze his efforts.

Now that Sutro has been successful, and has brought to his alliance, or compelled to respect his work, the mining men of the Comstock, from the biggest power to the man who wields the pick, it is wonderful to notice the transition of many of his former enemies to friends, all yelling, all claiming they had always advocated the tunnel; and this wonderful transformation has extended even to different journals, each claiming to have always been the strongest advocate for the tunnel since its inception. Mr. Sutro can well despise these journalistic scoundrels. He had not an ally in any of the daily newspapers of San Francisco. He accomplished his wonderful work without their assistance, and whatever credit is due belongs to himself and the small band of true friends that stood by him through the years he devoted to the completion of the tunnel."

FRIDAY evening, shortly after 6 o'clock, Richard Richardson, a colored man, shot L. M. Huntsman, a restaurant and saloon keeper at Carlin. Friday morning Huntsman purchased a horse and saddle. Richardson claimed the saddle, and in the evening Richardson removed the saddle from a mule which Huntsman had hitched outside his door. Huntsman followed with a club in his hand. The negro dropped the saddle, and, drawing a pistol, warned the white man not to approach nearer. They were at this time about ten feet apart. Huntsman disregarded the warning, and, rushing in, dealt Richardson a blow with his club upon the head. The negro then fired, shooting Huntsman through the left lung. The shooter was arrested. Huntsman lies in a very critical condition. There is some talk of lynching.

NEARLY all the class juries of the Paris Exhibition have finished their work and submitted reports to the group juries. The latter have passed upon the reports thus far presented, making very few changes. Nothing is officially known of the result, but it is officially stated that the Americans have obtained more prizes than the citizens of any other country in proportion to the number of exhibitors. In one class all the American exhibitors have obtained medals, and in another all except one. It is thought the United States will have five or six grand prizes and a liberal number of gold medals. The foreign jurors have expressed much admiration for the excellence of articles in the American section of the Exhibition.

A SUIT is pending in a London court brought by the Emma Mining Company against Lewis & Son, to recover damages for the part taken by the defendants in effecting a sale of the mine to the company for much more than it was worth. The defendants are metal brokers in Liverpool, and are charged with a conspiracy in promoting the formation of the company and the sale of the mine.

In consequence of the opposition offered by Gortchakoff the demolition of the fortifications of Batoum has not been made obligatory upon Russia, but is only implied in the designation of Batoum as a commercial port. The treaty of Berlin is to be printed on parchment and in an antique type. Each signatory power will receive a copy, signed by all the Plenipotentiaries.

THE Vanderbilt roads will economize by abolishing extra fast freight agencies, stopping payment of ticket commissions and stopping the competition of the Canada Southern and Lake Shore roads. A committee was appointed to stop cutting down on live stock rates.

THE Idaho Statesman tells what might have been as follows: Had Fort Boise been provided with an adequate military force—even three companies of cavalry—as was so often shown to be necessary, the present Indian war would have been crushed in the bud. The band of hostile Bannocks who formed the nucleus of the war would have been intercepted before crossing Snake river, and compelled to surrender or retire by the route they had started upon. But as it was, the only effective force was Colonel Bernard's single company of cavalry, which could not be divided, and could only march in one direction. This company achieved all that it was possible for one company to do. Had there been even another as good and as well officered the hostile Bannocks would never have been able to swing around the circle and gather allies as they did.

WAR NEWS.—The following is just received at headquarters, San Francisco, dated Wallula, July 12: The hostiles after Monday's battle turned north and eastward along the Blue Ridge and crossed Meacham's road in the night. Sanford's three companies of cavalry and Mills' infantry are to follow. Egbert operates from Baker City, guarding against a return of the Indians by the trail between him and Pinta Lake. Bernard is now at Forsythe's. He moves with six companies of cavalry northward to Dewiston. I am en route to Lapwai, Mt. Idaho and vicinity, with an infantry force to head the enemy at Snake Crossing. Throckmorton is near Pendleton, and will be strengthened by Mixner's companies to quiet the excited populace. The attempts to cross the Columbia by the hostiles have ceased. (Signed) HOWARD, Commanding the Department.

It appears from an official statement furnished by the Indian office in reply to criticisms that have recently appeared on the subject of purchases of beef for Red Cloud and Spotted Tail and other Sioux agencies, that the new contracts were made at exceptionally low rates, no bid so low having been offered the preceding year, and are a clear saving to the Government of $240,000 over the contracts of last year.

THERE are now about 320 Indians congregated at M'Dermitt. They are supplied with rations by the government and are under the immediate supervision of the military. The bucks are counted daily, and if they desire to leave the Post they must get permits from the commanding officer or run the risk of being treated as hostiles.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE ran behind-hand $4,000 last year, and President Bartlett and Colonel John H. George are endeavoring to persuade the New Hampshire Legislature to give the college $5,000 a year for ten years, to enable it to go along without any further retrenchment in salaries and reduction in the number of professorships.

AMONG the snug things in the gift of London is the office of City Remembrancer, which has lately become vacant. The duties involve daily attendance in the House of Commons during the sitting of Parliament, and the watching of all measures introduced or proposed likely to affect the interests of the city.

JEFF DAVIS says: "If I was not the first to plunge into the conflict, I am among the last to withdraw from it." According to Jeff the conflict still goes on, and his friends insist that complete reconciliation will not be secured until he is seated in his old place in the United States Senate. The yielding policy has no known limits.

EDWARD S. STOKES, the slayer of James Fisk, Jr., is now in Elko. He is interested in mines in Cornucopia District, and has come from New York to personally inspect them.

A BUGLE alarm mat has been invented, and application is to be made for a patent. It is an ordinary door mat in appearance, but the instant it is stepped on it will ring a bell, fire a gun, or anything else that electricity will do. It can be concealed under a carpet or elsewhere, but it will always be on hand when it finds itself under foot. That's what's the mat-er with the mat.

JOHN JENKINS, known as "Black Jack," was found dead in the road between Humboldt and Grizzly Valleys, in Plumas county, California, last Monday week. He was drunk when last seen, and probably fell from his wagon and was run over.
